Exemplars Of Student Ownership For Early Childhood Classrooms

According to Component 3c of the Danielson Framework for Teaching, the learning activities in a distinguished teacher's classroom "are complex and promote student engagement and initiation of inquiry and choice."

How can you use these parameters to cultivate an exemplary level of student ownership in your classroom? Start here!

Encourage student ownership of learning by allowing students to drive their work. Using the FfT guidelines shown, students can:

Collect data as students work, then use what you learn to guide next steps in your planning.

Student Ownership Planner

Students contribute to the exploration of content	Students reflect upon their learning
Activity or lesson	Activity or lesson
Resources needed	Resources needed
Students help one another build depth of understanding and complete tasks	Students flexibly group themselves during the lesson and achieve mastery of the content
Activity or lesson	Activity or lesson
Resources needed	Resources needed